MARION COUNTY MAN STRUCK BY AUTO DIES

Fred Mayer of Near Meeker Fatally Injured in Big Island Crash.

Fred Mayer, 50, of near Meeker was fatally injured shortly before 1 p. m. today when he was struck by an auto near Big Island, four miles west of Marion on Route 30-S.

Mr. Mayer died at City hospital at 1:25 o'clock this afternoon from internal injuries and severe shock. The attending physician said he also suffered from fractures of both legs and minor head lacerations and abrasions.

Cleaning Windshield

State Patrolman T. B. Morgan who investigated said he was told Mr. Mayer had stopped his car and was cleaning snow and ice from his windshield when he was struck by another auto. The driver of the other car, John M. Steffanni, 21, of West Salem, told the officer that although lights were burning on the Mayer car he failed to see the car parked on the highway because of a heavy fog.

The Steffanni car struck the rear section of the Mayer car and then sideswiped it, apparently striking Mr. Mayer as he stood at the side of the car, Patrolman Morgan reported. Neither Mr. Steffanni nor Eber Mathena of near Marion, a passenger in the Mayer car, was injured. Both cars were eastbound.

Ambulance Called

Mr. Steffanni told Patrolman Morgan that he was driving between 25 and 30 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

Passing motorists notified the patrol station here and summoned the Boyd ambulance which took Mr. Mayer to the hospital.

Mr. Mayer, a state highway employe, was enroute to work in Marion.

A resident of the county for many years, Mr. Mayer operated a farm three miles northwest of Meeker until last spring when he started working for the highway department. The family still lives on the farm near Meeker.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Ethel Mayer, and a son and two daughters, Mrs. Florine Berry of Richwood, Miss Doris Mayer of Magnetic Springs and Delmar at home.

STORM CENTERS OVER ANTI-LYNCH MEASURE

House Leaders Gather Forces for Battle.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—House members from the north and the south reached down into their dictionaries today for words to laud and lambast the anti-lynching bill, a recurring issue in election years.

The debate, bringing the chamber into session an hour early at 11 a. m., was expected to avail nothing more than to put the participants on record for political use.

The measure is certain of house passage, probably tomorrow. It won the right to consideration yesterday, 255 to 11, and will be sent to the senate by about the same margin.

After that, it faces a stiff going-over from southern senators—the same group which filibustered a similar bill to death in 1938.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, who blocked senate approval of the budget proposition yesterday, was reported to have come to terms with Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), the author. McNary wanted the study to include national defense costs.

Harrison's proposal would set up a 24-man committee to study both the source of revenue and prospective government spending to determine whether Uncle Sam can get by this year on less money.

MAN ACCUSED OF BURGLARY

Arrested by Patrolman After Breakin at W. Center St. Cafe.

Harold Crissinger, 29, of 386 Silver street was arrested by police early today as he allegedly was fleeing from the scene of a breakin at the LaMar cafe on West Center street.

Court officials said Crissinger would be arraigned this afternoon on a breaking and entering charge filed by Police Chief Marks. He was arrested about 4 a. m. today by Patrolman Homer Osmun who, police reported, surprised Crissinger during a burglary at the cafe.

Patrolman Osmun said he was walking on the south side of Center street and saw Crissinger inside the dimly-lighted cafe on the north side of the street. The officer said he started across the street to investigate and Crissinger apparently saw him and started to run towards the rear of the building. Patrolman Osmun ran around the building and met Crissinger as he was fleeing through the rear door, it was reported. He made no attempt to resist arrest.

In Crissinger's possession were a quart of whisky and a coin bag containing $20.97, police reported. These later were identified as property of the cafe.

Police said entrance to the cafe apparently was gained by breaking glass out of a rear window. The whisky was taken from the bar and the money had been removed from a hiding place, it was reported.

MERCURY DROPS TO 3 ABOVE ZERO HERE

Drops Below in Bucyrus and Several Other Points.

Near zero weather returned to Marion and vicinity last night, but is not expected to last long, according to the official forecast of the government weather bureau. The forecast is for increasing cloudiness with rising temperatures tonight, Wednesday cludy with rising temperatures and a light snow at night.

The thermometer of Weatherman Raffensperger fell to three degrees above zero last night from a high of 6. A year ago the range was from 58 to 35 degrees.

Elsewhere in Ohio, The Associated Press reported, sub-zero temperatures were not unusual. Salem reported an unofficial minimum of 10 below for the state. Bucyrus, with minus four, had its coldest weather in years and at Bowling Green at 8 a. m. it was nine below.

H. J. BARNHART AGAIN HEAD OF SCHOOL BOARD

Committee Named To Seek New Superintendent for Next School Term.

The Marion board of education reorganized yesterday at the first meeting of the new year, re-electing Harry J. Barnhart of 503 Vernon Heights boulevard as president, seating two new members, J. D. Torrance of 833 East Center street and Dr. F. L. Thomas of 337 South Main street, and re-seating Dr. R. T. Morgan of 648 Girard avenue, reelected.

When the board adjourned shortly after 6:30 last night, the 1940 appropriation calling for $529,301.25 had been passed; a motion had been adopted that the president immediately appoint a committee to seek a successor to Supt. C. A. Hudson, the new board going on record as recognizing action of the old board in accepting his resignation, effective June 15 of this year; action had been taken to give the city the use of the abandoned North State street school building for a relief center for at least a year; four votes had been taken and the board was deadlocked in electing a successor to Clerk F. C. Gegenheimer.

Dr. Thomas, nominated by President Barnhart, was unanimously elected vice president of the board, after serving as temporary chairman for the election of a president.

Two Nominated

Both Mr. Barnhart and Dr. Thomas were nominated for the presidency, the former by Mr. Torrance and the latter by Dr. Morgan. Mr. Barnhart was elected by the votes of Mr. Torrance, Dr. Thomas and himself. Dr. Morgan and Mr. Robinson voted for Dr. Thomas. Yesterday marked the beginning of Mr. Barnhart's twelfth year as a member of the board.

At the board's request for information regarding the electing of a clerk-treasurer, Mr. Gegenheimer explained that until the board named a successor by a majority vote and approved his bond, he, Mr. Gugenheimer, must continue to serve. He also explained that in the voting a candidate for the job could not cast a vote since, according to laws governing the board, "no one can vote on a contract in which he has a pecuniary interest."

As a result of this ruling, in view of the fact that the job of clerk-treasurer carried a $1,500 salary, the number of board members able to vote on the election of the clerk-treasurer was automatically reduced to four.

This made it necessary for three favorable votes to elect a candidate, and in the four rounds of votes taken neither Mr. Torrance, who was nominated by Dr. Thomas, nor Mr. Robinson, who was made a candidate by Dr. Morgan, received three favorable votes. Torrance was favored by Mr. Barnhart and Dr. Thomas while Robinson had only the favorable vote of Dr. Morgan.

Until the board elects a clerk-treasurer by ananimous vote Mr. Gegenheimer will continue to serve, although he will not have a voice in proceedings, no longer being a member of the board.

In one of the warmest set-to's a Marion board of education has engaged in in some time, the board finally passed the following motion, made by Mr. Torrance:

"I move that the president immediately appoint committees for the procedure of selecting a new superintendent for the city of Marion public schools for the year beginning June 16, 1940, since there is a resignation of the present superintendent, effective June 15."

Starts Lengthy Discussion

The motion brought up considerable argument as to whether it bound the new board to the old board's action last spring in accepting Mr. Hudson's resignation, and Mr. Torrance added the statement, "that this board agrees that the resignation as tendered the old board is effective."

Mr. Robinson seconded the amended motion and Dr. Thomas said: "I still feel, that things should be kept harmonious for our school children and I don't believe bringing this up will be the best thing for the children."

Asked by Mr. Barnhart whether he wished to withdraw his motion, Mr. Torrance replied: "No." The vote which followed was:

FORCES LOST IN ARCTIC REGION

Thousands of Soviet Troops Reported Roaming Wastes in Sub-Zero Cold.

By The Associated Press

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 9—Dispatches from Finland today declared thousands of terrified Russians, facing death or capture, were aimlessly roaming the bleak, cold region east of Suomussalmi, central Finland, as a result of the Finns' destruction of the Red army's 44th division.

Finnish ski scouts were said to be rounding up the fleeing Russians or annihilating them as the rout continued.

Great numbers were doomed to death in the intense cold, reports said, while others were dying of starvation. Remnants of the Russian 163rd division, which the Finns reported cut to pieces late in December, as well as the 44th were reported being mopped up.

The Finnish victory over the 44th division was attributed in Helsinki to Field Marshal Carl Gustave Mannerheim's instructions for winter fighting in the north country to "hit the Russians in the stomach."

As a result, the Finns were said to have concentrated their attention on disorganizing Russian supply lines and destroying field kitchens.

Even the hardiest Russians found their morale slipping as they were forced to fight day after day without warm food, these reports said.

Finnish Premier Asks Foreign Help

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Jan. 9—Finland's national income is "sinking rapidly," in the words of Prime Minister Risto Ryti, and she must have foreign credits to finance her defense against Soviet Russia.

"As a peace-loving nation, we previously have paid little attention to the munitions industry," the prime minister said last night.

"As a result of this, now that we have been attacked, we must procure arms and munitions on a large scale from abroad. Our exports are sufficient to pay only a part of the expenditure."

With national income "sinking rapidly," his statement went on, "the time has come when foreign credit is essential to us." It added that Finland would meet any new obligations "as faithfully as we have done up to now."

War Reports Scant

There were scant reports on warfare along the snowbound frontiers with Russia to add to word yesterday that thousands of Russians had been killed and 1,000 captured in destruction of a Russian division, identified as the 44th.

It was the second Red division reported shattered by the Finns within 10 days on the central eastern front. Neutral military experts estimate the Russian division at 15,000 to 17,000 men.

A Russian communique issued early today told only of scouting activities, artillery duels and sporadic rifle and machine-gun fire after saying, "on January 8, nothing important took place at the front."

CIVIC GROUPS ASK COUNCIL TO SEEK CROSSING SAFETY

ANOTHER TERM STILL RIDDLE

President Leaves Question Unanswered in Jackson Day Speech.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—President Roosevelt's "plate-side chat" to Jackson Day diners, lauding independent political thinking and joshing everyone from Republicans to himself, brought cheers and laughter—but left unanswered today the question of his future plans.

Democratic leaders who heard the Chief Executive make a jovial and philosophical talk at last night's $100-a-plate celebration interpreted his remarks variously as an indirect bid for a third term, as a valedictory, or merely as a studied effort to "keep 'em guessing."

Most of the party bigwigs laughingly agreed with Mr. Roosevelt's own comment, however, that he was a "self-made riddle" and predicted that the riddle would go unsolved for weeks or months.

Frivolity was the keynote of the dinner here, and Mr. Roosevelt was in a story-telling mood. But his speech had some serious moments.

Party Responsibility

Taking as his theme "by their motives may ye know them" he told his hearers in Washington and at 44 other dinners that it was not so much the party to which a leader belonged, but the deeds he performed in the interest of the general welfare that counted.

"People tell me," he went on, "that I hold to party ties less tenaciously than most of my predecessors in the presidency, that I have too many people in my administration who are not active party Democrats.

"I admit the soft impeachment. My answer is that I do believe in party organization, but only in proportion to its proper place in government."

The future, he asserted, lies with those wise political leaders "who realize that the great public is interested more in government than in politics; that the independent vote in this country has been steadily on the increase * * *.

Refers To 1936

"The growing independence of voters, after all, has been proved by the votes in every presidential election since my childhood—and the tendency is on the increase. I am too modest, of course, to refer to the most recent example—the election of 1936.

"Party regulars who want to win must hold their allies and supporters among those independent voters—and don't let us forget it."

Those in the audience who were looking for clues about Mr. Roosevelt's political thoughts considered that sentence a possible recipe for a Democratic presidential candidate. Even though he did not discuss the approaching campaign directly, he included in his salutation to the 1,100 guests: "Candidates here and candidates there—"

National Chairman James A. Farley, who introduced Mr. Roosevelt, came closest to an-

BROMFIELD ENTERS RACE FOR CONGRESS

Mansfield Novelist Agrees To Make Campaign.

ASHLAND, O., Jan. 9—Louis Bromfield, man of letters, gentleman farmer and currently a film writer, definitely aspires to the lot of a legislator.

A transcontinental telephone call made the 1926 Pulitzer prize winner a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 17th Ohio district.

"I'm sorry I couldn't let you know sooner, but I just had to sit down and think it over," the author told Roe Wolfe, Ashland county Democratic chairman, who wired Bromfield several days ago asking him to be a candidate.

Finns Promised Britain's Backing By Chamberlain

Prime Minister Sees War with Germany Thus Far Merely Preliminary of Struggle Yet To Come.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 9—(Via Radio)—Prime Minister Chamberlain in a militant address to the British empire today declared Britain's aid to Finland "will be no mere formality," and said that events in the war with Germany thus far were "merely preliminary" to the main struggle to come.

"It is only on the sea," he said, "that the war may be said to be in full operation."

The prime minister, speaking in a voice choked with emotion, declared that the British-French alliance should become permanent in the interests of "peaceful reconstruction" after the war is over.

For 55 minutes, Britain's war leader reviewed the progress of the hostilities to date in an address at the Lord Mayor's luncheon at Mansion House. It was Chamberlain's first public appearance of the new year, a year which he said would be a fateful one in the history of the world.

Calm Before Storm

He said the "unbelievable" quiet of the first months of the war could only be interpreted as "the quiet of the calm before the storm."

The solemn words of the prime minister were frequently interrupted by cheers and applause.

Speaking of Finland, Chamberlain said:

"And now it is the turn of Finland to be attacked by the power (Soviet Russia) with whom Germany made an unholy pact and for whom she sets the example of agression. Finland . . . . is fighting against the forces of unscrupulous violence just as we are ourselves. She is fighting for the same thing, for liberty and for justice.

"That valiant people can rest assured that our response to that resolution (for aid to Finland) which was passed so recently at a meeting of the League in Geneva will be no mere formality."

Chamberlain said bitterly that the leaders of the German people would like to treat the British as they are treating "their conquered people."

No Vindictive Designs

"But we on our side have no such vindictive designs," he said. He labeled as a "vicious invention" of German propagandists the thought that the British would attempt to annihilate the Germans. He described Germany's policy as a threat and a menace "to the moral standards on which western civilization is built."

Chamberlain declared that Britain's mastery of the seas was unimpaired and the England was ready to repel any invader from the air.

"Four months have gone by and the air raids have not come," he said after mentioning blackouts and other precautions.

He drew laughter a moment later when he said:

"Some people are disappointed, perhaps."

"I do not consider that the risk of air raids is over or diminished," he said, and I am certain that we should make a capital mistake if we become lax in our policy or changed it . . . .

"It is only on the sea," the prime minister said, "that England can see the trend of hostilities."

"If we take a survey we can look upon it with satisfaction,"

Burned Hatchery To Be Rebuilt Within 2 Weeks

Plans for rebuilding the main section of the Ohls Hatchery which was razed by fire early Sunday were announced today by Harry E. Ohls, president of Ohls Hatcheries, Inc., who arrived here late yesterday from his home in New York City.

The new building will be erected on the site of the burned plant, one-half mile north of Marion, and will be ready to resume operation in two weeks, Mr. Ohls reported. Plans for the new building were being completed today and the actual work probably will get under way within the next day or two, he said.

New incubators were purchased yesterday and will be shipped here in time for installation as soon as the building is completed, Mr. Ohls said. The new incubators will have a capacity of 120,000 eggs, slightly lower than the 177,000 egg capacity of the old incubators. By resuming operations in two weeks, the company will be able to fill all of its spring orders, Mr. Ohls reported.

Mr. Ohls reported this morning that the loss from the fire probably will amount to between $24,000 and $25,000, part of which is covered by insurance. Before Mr. Ohls' arrival here the loss had been unofficially estimated at between $30,000 and [illegible].

APPEAL GIVEN TO COMMITTEES

City Urged To Request Railroads for Great Protection; Appropriations Made.

The problem of what can be done toward obtaining greater railroad crossing protection in Marion was placed before city council last night when a delegation of some 30 citizens appeared at its meeting in city hall.

After a half-hour of discussion, with civic groups, the railroads and the city all represented, Council President Robert H. Stief referred the question jointly to the ordinance and franchise and police committees with instructions that they work with the railroads and with civic organizations toward a solution.

Councilman Hayse L. Rogers, chairman of the ordinance and franchise committee, said that probably the city will wait a reasonable length of time for action by the railroads and that if nothing is done, the city will take some sort of action to get what it wants. He said that if need be, the two committees will meet jointly with civic groups to map out a course of action. Council voted its appreciation to the various groups for their interest.

Follows Fatal Accident

Presentation of the question before council was the latest development in the agitation for increased crossing safety which followed the recent death at a North Main street crossing of Miss Patricia Doyle of Marion.

Other business before council:

Appropriation of $30,103 to carry the city through the first month of the year until the annual appropriation measure is passed.

Reappointment of Clyde C. Caldwell as safety-service director, Walter S. Guthrie as clerk of council and mayor's clerk, Mrs. Carl Miller to the health board and T. L. Fahey to the board of trustees of the sinking fund.

Appointment of council committees for the year and election of Harry D. Cahill as president pro tem.

Setting of Feb. 12 for public hearing on a request for transfer of a property at the southeast corner of Church street and Pennsylvania avenue to the commercial zone.

Chamber Secretary Speaks

Council President Stief threw the meeting open to discussion of the railroad crossing question at the outset, calling upon Louis E. Michel, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, which has been active in the agitation for increased protection.

Mr. Michel explained he was speaking for the civic affairs committee of the Chamber, and that the Chamber has been working on the question for some time. The Chamber's interest is not the outgrowth of any one incident, he said, pointing out that the group's "program of work" (including a campaign for crossing safety) was drafted well before the recent fatality at a North Main street crossing which touched off a widespread drive for increased protection.

He viewed greater crossing safety as having two benefits—to the railroad and to the city.

The recommendation of the Chamber's committee, previously announced, is that all railroad crossings in the city limits be protected 24 hours a day by watchmen or mechanical signals or a combination of the two.

"We haven't the right to suggest the type of protection needed, since we are not engineers," he said. "We merely ask greater protection as citizens."

Reports on Survey

He presented results of a survey extending over a 10 year period from [illegible] to 1939, inclusive, showing there were 11 fatalities from auto-train collisions here. There were [illegible] accidents involving autos and trains at crossings.

Mr. Michel said the survey [illegible]

Mr. Michel said that the crossing problem has been growing for the last 25 years and admitted that his group does not know the answer. He asked the council to

Harpster Man's Sewage Treatment Process To Be Used in New Plant

Lebanon, O., Installs System Evolved in Research by C. H. Lewis, Former Lieutenant Governor.

First Ohio test of the results of scientific research by a Harpster, O., man will be made within the next two weeks with the opening of the Lebanon sewage treatment plant.

The Lebanon plant will use the Lewis sewage treatment evolved by Charles H. Lewis of Harpster, former lieutenant governor of the state. Back of the plant will be 16 years and $500,000 spent in research.

Back in 1924 and '25 when he was lieutenant governor, Mr. Lewis, a farmer by vocation and still a farmer by avocation, set out to provide a cheap yet effective means of enabling cities to clean up their sewage before they dumped it into the rivers of the state.

Research Conducted

He went to work in a laboratory and with chemists to assist him, attacked the program from the viewpoint of colloidal chemistry. Dr. O. M. Urbain of the Urbain Laboratories in Columbus eventually entered the research and out of the work grew the basic data upon which the United States patent office has granted 114 basic patents and now has 24 others under consideration. The last 11 of the 114 patents were granted on Aug. 29 of last year.

Explained briefly in a recent newspaper account, the process is this: The sewage is passed through a series of three tanks where cheap chemicals are added in proper sequence to set up chemical reactions on the sewage which combine to solidify foreign matters and results in an effluent which is as clear as the water drawn from a faucet at home.

Makes Fertilizer

The patents include a process for the reclamation of these foreign matters which may be dried and sold as fertilizer. The fertilizer, the patent owners claim, is superior to existing commercial fertilizers and does not have the harmful bacilli common to materials reclaimed from other known types of sewage treatment plants.

The process will work, Mr. Lewis and Dr Urbain know. The process was installed on an experimental basis in a plant at Atlanta, Ga. Hugh A. Wyckoff, head of the department of biology at Georgia Tech, after running a series of 600 tests on the effluent at the plant, reported:

"I do not hesitate to state that in my judgment the Lewis Treatment is capable of producing a very striking reduction in the bacterial content of the sewage treatment. It was not at all uncommon to obtain an effluent from this process containing very few or no coli organisms in one cubic centimeter of sample, an enormous reduction in the total count. The coli count was consistently much less than that of any stream into which the effluent might flow."

Last year the Lewis Treatment process, which met with opposition from other currently-used types of treatment, was "sold" to the Lebanon city council by its backers proposing to erect a sewage treatment plant at a cost of $35,000 when the cheapest method in competition would have cost approximately $90,000.

Near Completion

The Lebanon plant will be completed within two weeks and will be the center of interest of sanitary authorities.

Authorities predict, according to the news account, that if the plant does all that Mr Lewis and Dr Urbain claim for it, the process seems destined for world-wide recognition in meeting a vast problem of urban civilization.

Mr. Lewis besides his scientific work and political career is a banker, newspaper publisher and trustee of Ohio Northern university.

Last week the Huffman-Wolfe Corp., was organized in Columbus for the purpose of licensing the use of patents pertaining to the elimination of stream pollution and the treatment of sewage. Mr. Lewis retains ownership of the patents. The president of the company is Arthur D Wolfe one of the biggest plumbers in the business in Ohio. The new corporation has been granted the use of the patents with the right to license them for use in sewage plants where they are needed.

Poor Richard Club To Present Medal At Annual Dinner

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 9—Envoys of at least 16 Latin American nations will come here from Washington Jan. 17 to be guests of honor that night at the annual Benjamin Franklin birthday banquet of the Poor Richard club.

The purpose of the banquet this year is to advance social, cultural and commercial relations between the United States and the republics to the south. Among the 1,200 guests will be leading advertising men of the United States, manufacturers, publishers, and press association and radio executives.

"We are attempting to bring the ambassadors and ministers of Latin American countries together with advertising leaders of this country in a spirit of 'let's play'," said John R. Hartman, general chairman of the banquet.

The Poor Richard club's gold medal for achievement will be awarded to Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, for his work in promoting friendliness between the Americas.

Past recipients of the medal include the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis, and Will Rogers, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, M. H. Aylesworth, former president of the National Broadcasting Company, Walt Disney, Alfred J. Sloan Jr., Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, Will Hays and David Sarnoff.

In a hotel ballroom festooned with flags of American nations, the banquet will begin, as always, at 6.58 p. m. with a toast to Benjamin Franklin.

Then comes the traditional "parade of the trade marks"—a procession of pretty girls in costumes exemplifying various advertised products. In addition to this display, there will be 21 girls representing Latin American countries whose flags will adorn their evening gowns.

In the only speech of the evening, G. Adolphe Wideman, president of the Poor Richard club, will present the gold medal to Dr. Rowe. The rest of the program is devoted to entertainment, much of it on a stage portraying the patio of a Spanish house.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen's Gesture Convinces Queen Olga of His Love.

QUEEN OLGA had not reseated herself after she had risen precipitately from her chair in astonishment at my revelation of Philip Veritzen's intended duplication of her emeralds, and had told me of the secret mark upon her gems which would have enabled her instantly to detect the substitution. And at my dolorous comment that his magnificent gesture was as futile as my betrayal of it, she crossed swiftly to me and, putting her hands on my shoulders, looked down into my eyes.

"My dear Madge!" she said, her rich contralto voice vibrant with emotion. "Do you think I am a woman who needs to have something of the spirit which is infinitely beautiful, translated into coin of the realm?"

I looked at her still lovely face, swept now with emotion, and my mental barometer began to rise again.

"What—what—do you mean?" I stammered banally.

"I mean," she said slowly, "that Philip's wonderful gesture, and your equally wonderful crucifixion of your instincts, have not been in vain.

"Oh!" I breathed. "Olga! Can it be that you—?"

Her smile was something to remember, so radiant and tender it was.

"Yes, dear Madge," she said. "What you have told me has made me come to a decision. Your perceptions are so keen that I know you have realized how strongly my heart has battled against my pride in this affair."

I nodded. "Yes, I know," I said softly.

She released my shoulders, and, stepping back, seated herself in her chair again. Then she leaned forward, here eyes intent upon mine.

Was It Love?

"On two things I was determined until five minutes ago," she said. "One was that before marrying Philip I must be sure that it was love, not chivalry, which was promoting his offer of marriage. As it is, I do not know that I can ever forget the look on his face when he first saw me stumbling along the deck of his yacht after our rescue from the ship of our kidnapers. For a fleeting second there was actual revulsion in his face at my hag-like appearance. I could not blame him, but neither could I accept his later declaration of love that never had ceased."

Her lovely triante voice was suddenly silent, but I felt instinctively that my cue was also silence, and in another half second she went on.

Second Resolution

"My second resolution concerned my financial straits. I was determined that I would not come to Philip a penniless bride, but I realize now that, primarily, my feeling had its roots in the other fear, that he really did not love me—any more."

"But now, thanks to your revelation, I am covinced. Nothing but a great love could prompt such a gesture as Philip is planning, and in the face of that my own pride must capitulate. Tell me! He has not yet placed the order for the emeralds, has he?"

"No," I replied promptly, trying to keep my voice steady in the face of this thrilling news. "He is waiting for me to tell him the name of the jeweler from whom the emeralds were bought."

"Then," she said, "there is no time to be lost. You said he was coming here this morning?"

"Yes," I answered, "to see Olina, at her request, and I heard him stipulate that he must see you also."

"At half after ten, I think you said."

"Yes, that was the hour."

She looked at her watch.

"I have time to dress, as well as to ask you another question," she said, smiling. "Have you any idea of what Olina wishes to ask Philip this morning? You said she told him, after she had reported she could not get what he wanted from you, that she wished very much to see him."

"Mary says," I answered, "that Olina wishes a part in one scene of my play where she can play a harp."

DO WE HAVE TO DIE?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power-mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields. To that eternal question, "Do we have to die?" his answer is astounding.

The author states the time has come for this long hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9,000-word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to sincere readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 168P, Los Angeles, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed.—(Adv.)

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

YESTERDAY: After a big send-off Bob and Sue move to Queen City. Their new house is large and their new neighbors charming.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

Prosperity

JUST before six, after an exhausting afternoon of furniture placing and unpacking of books and clothing, sweet Mary Hampton arrived with a hamper of steaming food.

"What a lot you've accomplished!" she exclaimed admiringly. "And what lovely old furniture you have! That Chippendale desk is a beauty!"

Sue's face mirrored her astonishment. She was still more surprised when a few days later she found in the Hampton home pieces far finer than her own.

She joined the local Literary club more to increase Bob's business than in the expectation of receiving cultural enlightenment; and was jolted out of her citybred complacency by finding most of the members far better informed on such matters than she was herself.

Later she was to come in contact with the petty gossip, the unbearable inquisitiveness, the narrow standards which remain like a sediment in the sparkling waters of most country towns, but for this first winter, everything combined to present Queen City's most enjoyable side.

Sue had her sewing: that peculiarly charming and touching garment-making of the young mother-to-be. She had the radio, with world-famous voices, world-famous orchestras—and for the first time in years, leisure to listen. She had enough housework to keep her in good health, not enough to tire her unduly. She had her interesting neighbors. She had Bob, and Bob had her.

They grew closer together every day. Bob talked over the store with her, described his customers, asked her advice about the spring orders. Gradually Sue came to know those who bought from him: first by his vivid, if sometimes ridiculous descriptions, later by personal acquaintance.

She knew the Steinhauser girls on the big farm west of town: hard-working daughters of a stingy farmer who would not allow them, grown women as they were, to select their own shoes, but himself came in to feel with fingers hardly less leathery than the article they explored the stout laced oxfords, or thick-soled brogues. Once Sue saw him jerk from the wistful touch of his eldest a satin slipper at least four sizes too small for her foot.

And once Sue's heart was wrung by a young father who brought out four soiled dollar bills and said briefly they must suffice for shoes for both his children. The oldest, a boy of eleven, turned anguished eyes from the sturdy boots Bob's assistant took from the pasteboard box.

"Aw, Pop aw, Pop," he stammered. "Don't none of the fellers wear boots to school any more!"

"But you have to wear 'em in the fields, son; and Pop can't always git you two pair!"

They looked long at each other, worried, understanding, harassed father and agonized little boy, then the child gulped and nodded. Sue nearly wept with love of her husband when he came forward, saying pleasantly:

"Did I hear you saying something about needing two pairs of shoes for this young man, Mr Lawson? Well, you're playing in luck today, you sure are! I'm closing out a couple of lines—his size, too, what d'you think of that?—and this is once in your life when you can buy two pairs for the price of one!"

Because she could not trust herself to say what she thought of this, Sue commented that evening: "Do you have many days when you do business like that, Bob?"

He grinned sheepishly. "Old Pearson would fire me if he'd overheard, wouldn't he? But—but it might have been our kid, Sue, you know!"

Sue's Son

In spite of such incidents or perhaps because of them, the new store flourished. "Old Pearson" wrote personally and encouragingly of its tiny success. If it held up like that for two years, they might consider starting another in Leighton, twenty-two miles away.

Spring came, and the lilacs and spice bush and syringas burst into fragrant bloom. The grass was emerald beneath. The appletrees. The peachtrees glowed with rose, with coral. Sue had a maid now, a husky country girl whose muscle was better developed than her brain. It was only by conducting the housekeeping along the simplest lines that Sue managed at all. Pats and Allen, driving out to a late Sunday dinner, were disgusted and amused respectively by the service of the meal.

"You, Sue, of all people to live like this!"

"What's the matter with the way we live?" she demanded placidly.

Her sister-in-law pointed eloquently to the plate which had just been set on the table. It had squares of butter, each neatly speared with a toothpick. Sue chuckled.

"It's Mame's idea of really stylish service," she said. "I couldn't imagine why on earth she insisted on running over to the drugstore when she found you were coming. It was to buy the toothpicks. Help yourself, Pats, and butter one of these biscuits. I'll warrant you never tasted any that were more delicious!"

In June Sue was driven frantically into the hospital; and with less ado than any one, even Dr Van Ness had expected, Robert Allen Trenton was born.

A trim maid admitted Allen. His sick eyes had not been quite oblivious to the fact that the Trentons' Atchison home was large and comfortable, tangible evidence of Bob's new prosperity. The maid was another.

Sue came downstairs on swift feet.

"Allen! Oh, Allen, dear!" And then, in a frightened voice: "What is it, Buddy?"

He licked his dry lips. "Pats has left me, Sue. May I—may I spend a few days here with you and Bob? I had to get away."

"Of course, my dear!" She drew him down to the couch, took her place beside him. "How do you mean, Pats has left you?"

"Just that. She's gone—with Forest Webb," he added almost as an after-thought.

Sue was stunned. Forest Webb! It could not be. True, Pats had of late quoted Forest more and more frequently. But Forest was Allen's closest friend, as his sister was Sue's own. It simply could not be that Pats and Forest—!

But it appeared it not only could be, it was. Allen told her about it in brief, dry sentences. Pats had not left a letter—not Pats! She had called him from Kansas City, explaining quite gaily that she and Forest were on their way to New York. (Allen wondered a little at Sue's involuntary shiver as he got this far in his recital.) Forest, it appeared, had severed his connection with his old firm; had made new arrangements with an Eastern one. Pats wanted Allen to divorce her. "You can be decent and call it desertion, or you can name Forest as co-respondent; it doesn't matter to me at all!" she had concluded flippantly.

"But—but I should think she would have wanted it the other way around, that she would go to Reno—"

Unbelievably Changed

Allen shook his head. "She knew I'd never consent to that! Lord, Sue," he continued with a hint of irritation, "don't you suppose we've been all over that ground time after time? She was always asking for a divorce. We've hardly had one month's happiness together."

"Why didn't you give it to her, Allen?"

A look of stubbornness replaced his dulled grief.

"I wouldn't—I won't. If there's to be a legal separation between us, Pats will have to be the one to get it, not I!"

"Even now?" she asked incredulously.

"More than ever now!" Anger flamed in his sunken eyes. "Let Forest Webb see how far he'll get with Pats hung 'round his neck!"

His sister was silent, stroking the hand she held in both her smooth ones. Allen was unbelievably changed, she thought. He was bitter, unreasonable, quick to anger. Pats had done this to him! She tried to feel anger in her own mind but relief at the other woman's going was too great. Allen needed rest and a change of scene. Here with her and the children, he would soon be himself again.

She had his bag taken to her charming guest room. She summoned sturdy four-year-old Robert and tiny Susan to greet their uncle; and she presently shut herself upstairs in her sitting room to warn Bob by telephone of the presence of their visitor.

"Fine family, nice house!" Allen said heavily that evening.

Dinner was over and the two men were smoking in the library. The warm March day had ended in a burst of cold rain and Sue was glad of the excuse for a small fire.

"You've made a wonderful comeback, old man!"

"I'm doing pretty well," Bob admitted. "Thanks to Sue!" He sent her an affectionate smile. "If she hadn't stood by me like a house afire, I'd have been sunk years ago." Then remembering guiltily that Allen's wife had not stood by him, he attempted to change the subject. "Funny—finding ourselves on this side of the river! But since Sue can see it here even better than she could in St Joseph—"

"Yes, that's why I chose this house," she interrupted brightly. "We get such a marvelous view of it here."

"How many Pearson stores do you own now, Bob?"

"Half own, you mean. Pearson always retains a fifty per cent interest, you know."

He went at length into the number and size of the stores, the territory they covered. Allen listened absently. The Trentons knew he was not hearing a word.

33 Wounded As Germans Renew Shipping Attacks

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 9—Thirty-three men were wounded, mostly by machine-gun fire and one Danish vessel was bombed and sunk as German warplanes were reported to have attacked eleven ships off Britains coast today.

Crowds on the cliffs of the northeast Scottish coast saw a bomb hit the stern of a Danish vessel which sank in about three hours The crew of this ship, the name of which was not disclosed was rescued by nearby vessels

So near the coast was part of the encounter that onlookers heard the rattle of machine-guns

One of the vessels attacked it was reported was machine-gunned and ten men aboard were hurt. This vessel was relieving a lightship off the east coast of Scotland.

Another ship was attacked in the same region and two more further south. A fifth ship, location of which was not given was reported damaged by bombs from a German heinkel. The attacks were made under the cover of mists

RAILROAD CROSSINGS

Editor of The Star Marion with all of its principal traffic arteries at grade with the railroads still is in the horse and buggy days

There are many much used crossings which are unprotected and still in my mind are preventable accidents which have occurred at several of these points.

I wish to comment on the several "safeguards for grade crossings

Hurrah for the crossing gates which can be battered down by speeding and skidding automobiles

Bad luck for crossing watchmen who are killed or injured by careless drivers

Thanks will be given for flasher lights that are unseen by eyes blinded or looking in another direction

I worked a number of years for a railroad company, at times repairing crossing gates and blinkers. In talking with eyewitnesses of accidents I found that the majority of mishaps to this apparatus were the fault of drivers of cars out of control or just plain careless

Grade separation is the safe and up-to-date arrangement for railroad-highway crossings and no railroad should run through the center of town as we have it here EARL J CAMP

This Ohio Company, Serving Only Ohio People, Will Continue Its Constant Effort to Bring Ohioans the Good Things First . . . Better Services and Products at a Fair Price to All GOING "LIKE SIXTY," at seventy, the Standard Oil Company skips lightly over the realization of its three-score-years-and-ten, and looks ahead tomorrow to the busiest and most progressive years of its life.

For you, Standard Oil's past achievements have immediate importance only in that they provided the pioneering experience that will help us do even better things in the years to come.

We're 70 years old tomorrow—but we never felt younger or less "set in our ways." In all those 70 years we've never been static or satisfied things couldn't be made better.

That's the way we've always done business—and that's the way we'll continue to do business. For we feel the only reason we can constantly ask you Ohioans to buy our products, is to constantly make our products better buys for you. This year our products and services are the best we've ever offered. And we plan to make them still better in each of the next 70 years to come.

We're having a party! Stop at your SOHIO service station tomorrow and get a special birthday cake—all fixed up in a nice party package! We've ordered 250,000 of these cakes with the hope of having one for every one of our friends who drive in. You needn't buy anything—just stop by, have a cake, and help us celebrate!

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Put this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

'Ninotchka,' Now at Palace Wins Reviewer's Praise

A new, gay Garbo brightens the Palace screen this week, an actress with a perfect sense of comedy that makes "Ninotchka" an outstanding romantic treat. She's terrific as the sober unsmiling "comrade" from Russia who blossoms into a lighthearted young man in love with a French count, Melvyn Douglas

The dialogue is of a light, sophisticated brand. It brings outright laughs. Garbo, discussing the Eifel tower with Douglas explaining to him the cold facts of love and questions him with that flat "why" is something to roar about. She's a stony person in the first part of the picture but when she breaks the shell of her Russian military training — she's been an officer in the army—she's something to rave about. Adding to this Lubitsch picture are three of her "comrades," Felix Bressart, Sig Rumann and Alexander Granach, who go to Paris to sell Russian jewels, find the capitalistic life is the berries and have themselves a time. She is sent to straighten them out and becomes involved with Douglas, who is trying to retrieve the jewels for his light o' love, a Russian noblewoman played with zest by Ina Claire. Garbo buys the silliest hat in Paris, buys evening clothes and indulges in frivolities. It's a hectic romance but it ends on a laugh, with the couple reunited in Constantinople The picture will be shown tonight, Thursday and Friday —H. H.

School Board Elects Officers

Mr. Torrance's motion was preceded by a resolution presented by Mr. Robinson with the following statement:

"It is not my desire to injure anyone's feelings. I feel that last year a mistake was made when the board reorganized. It developed later as spring came on and the superintendent's contract came up, the claim was made that Mr. Hudson had not been notified concerning his reemployment. I don't feel it was any fault of mine because I think Mr. Hudson should know. In all fairness to him I don't bring this in to hurt his feelings but as a board member I feel it is that board's duty to take action one way or another. I have a resolution I should like to present to the board. There seems to be some misunderstanding in some quarters as to the attitude this board will take on the agreement entered into in June between the board and Mr. Hudson. I present the following:

Submits Resolution

"Therefore be it resolved that this board of education as now constituted hereby ratify, confirm and adopt the agreement by and between said board and Mr. Hudson and accept the resignation as superintendent as of June, 1940, as the agreement and resignation are recorded in the minutes of the board and be it further resolved that this board be immediately constituted a committee as a whole to seek and select a person other than C. A. Hudson to be superintendent after June 15, 1940."

He moved for its adoption and was seconded by Dr. Morgan. Following is some of the ensuing discussion:

Mr. Hudson: "Mr. President. If I understand right the date named in the last sentence would not be correct. Am I right?"

Mr. Gegenheimer, after referring to records of the spring meeting: "That is correct (referring to the date given in Mr. Robinson's resolution.) The contract was for a year but the resignation was effective June 15."

Mr. Torrance: "Is that necessary for the resolution?"

Mr. Robinson: "It is, for the fact that I talked to Mr. Hudson several times last spring. Along in May he said he had not been notified. You know what a rumpus was stirred up. It is not healthy for the school system and I believe in giving a man a chance. I'm not doing this to down Mr. Hudson in any way at all. I haven't a thing against him personally as a man."

Mr. Hudson: "Is it necessary to have all this publicity?"

Mr. Robinson: "Everyone was criticized editorially and on the streets over the deal last year and personally I don't want to see the same thing happen this spring."

Cites Record

Mr. Barnhart: "We certainly have a record of the transaction and there couldn't be any misunderstanding there."

Dr. Morgan: "The new board ought to go on record on this matter."

Mr. Torrance: "Isn't there an article stating that a resignation is accepted as a resignation and that when it is accepted it is accepted finally? I can see Mr. Robinson's idea."

Mr. Robinson: "I want to be fair to everyone, myself included. I don't want to be condemned in May."

Mr. Gegenheimer, reading from statute: "A resignation from office to become effective at some future time cannot be withdrawn at some future time without consent of accepting party."

Mr. Robinson: "Is this the accepting party, now that we have two new members?"

Mr. Hudson: "We have it on the record."

Mr. Torrance: "I can see Mr. Hudson's viewpoint. Would it suffice to have a statement from Mr. Hudson which would not necessarily be in the record, regarding this matter?"

Dr. Morgan: "That doesn't put the new board on record upholding action of the old board. Frank's idea was to put on record the new board as agreeing with the old board. Isn't that right, Frank?"

Mr. Robinson: "That is right, so that in the spring no one can say Mr. Hudson wasn't notified."

Dr. Morgan: "Mr. Hudson told people we threw him out on his head. It was all over town."

Mr. Hudson: "It should have been."

Resolution Proposed

Mr. Torrance suggested a resolution asking the president to name committees to seek a new superintendent, to which Mr. Robinson objected and to which Mr. Gegenheimer said that to get on record what Mr. Robinson sought, a sentence should be added in which the new board recognized the old board's action in accepting Mr. Hudson's resignation.

Mr. Barnhart: "Then they are trying to force the new members to put it on record. The old members are trying to force it on record in addition to what we have."

Mr. Robinson: "I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings."

Mr. Hudson: "Is it necessary to take any action at this meeting?"

Mr. Robinson: "We are coming toward spring."

Mr. Barnhart: "I move that we defer action."

Brought to a vote, the board declined the motion and the resolution of Mr. Torrance was presented.

Mr. Hudson, speaking vehemently, said: "You gentlemen put me here to finish this job of work ...It is high time you realized that a superintendent has responsibilities and to leave him alone long enough to discharge these responsibilities. Whoever you put in here, give him a chance to go out and do something."

Mr. Robinson: "I am just clearing my skirts of last spring when you said the question should have been brought up in January."

Mr. Hudson: "Your skirts will be clear without any further comment."

Mr. Hudson and Dr. Morgan engaged in a heated argument regarding publicity which other news sources have given out regarding board meetings, and Dr. Morgan readily said: "I did a whole lot of it."

Appropriations Made

The appropriation seeking $529,301.25, was presented by Mr. Gegenheimer and was broken down as follows:

Salaries, $330,300; supplies, $32,925; maintenance materials, $3,475; equipment replacements, $1,300 contract and open-order service, including utilities and tuitions, $21,875; fixed charges and contributions, including insurance, taxes, workman's compensations, teacher and employe retirement payments, $16,700; capital outlay, $800; bonds maturing $82,000; interest on bonds, $32,656.25; building funds, $5,670; special library fund, $1,000.

Mr. Gegenheimer presented the county budget commission's official estimate of revenues for the schools, which set aside $458,272.57 in the general fund, including a balance of $96,408.66, and $143,539.33 for bond retirement, including a balance of $64,621.16. Of the amount in the general fund most of the sum of $204,048.23 will come from the state foundation program and state reimbursement for Marion's special schools, according to Mr. Gegenheimer.

Mayor Russell C. Snare and Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell came in for a short time to ask the board's permission to use the State Street school as a center for relief and WPA activities.

Cites Rent Costs

The mayor said that under the present set-up there is an office on South Prospect street and a center on East Church street which are costing the city $75 a month rent, and that a new project soon will be set up which will cost the city additional rent.

He said that at an estimated cost of $1,500 the State Street school, damaged by fire more than a year ago, could be put in condition to bring all the projects under one roof.

Dr. Morgan raised the question of whether the board might not want to put the building into use for school purposes and the mayor said that "of course" the city would not want to make the investment and then have to abandon the building in a short time. He said the city did not expect to pay rent.

After considerable discussion of the matter the mayor and Mr. Caldwell left, leaving final action to the board.

Mr. Barnhart said it was safe to say the board would not want the building for a year and Dr. Morgan brought up the mayor's comment that the city would not take the building if it was to be relinquished "on demand" of the board.

The matter was settled by unanimous vote on Mr. Barnhart's suggestion that the city be allowed to use the building a year at least and after a year with the understanding that it be abandoned "on demand."

The board instructed Mr. Barnhart to notify the mayor of its action within a short time.

Library Appointment

Mr. True was reappointed to the public library board by unanimous vote of the board. Mr. Hudson explained to the board that there are seven members on the board, each serving seven years and that the other members are J. D. Williamson, Miss Louise Cunningham, Mrs. Herman S. Rhu, Dr. F. A. Stengel, Mrs. Fillmore Young and himself.

The board voted to pay for the construction of a cement curbing and gutter on Latourette street between Jackson and Brown street on the side on which the Glenwood school is located.

Vernon L. Street of 326 Latourette street, who said he lives across from the school, presented a petition for the curbing and gutter signed by property owners, which Mr. Barnhart signed for the board. Mr. Street said it would be a WPA project under direction of the city engineer. He said there is urgent need for the curbing and gutter, especially in bad weather, and that it would increase the width of the street from 16 to 20 feet. Sixty cents a foot is the cost of the project according to an estimate of Safety-Service Director Caldwell, Mr. Street told the board.

Mr. Gegenheimer reported that fire insurance which expired Dec. 1 had been renewed and increased to take care of the large number of free text books now kept in buildings. One-third of the insurance expired, in the amount of $383,050, and in accord with a plan instituted last year when a third of the insurance expired, this year's renewals were made with the Insurance Underwriters association and written as one policy. The five local agents handling the insurance, Watrous, Llewellyn, Orlans, Kette and Smith will divide the premium of $911.66 in the same proportion to the amount of the insurance they handled for the board last year, according to Mr. Gegenheimer. Next year, when the last third expires, it also will be re-written in one policy and the premium will be divided among the agents as it was this year, he said.

Set Meeting Time

By unanimous vote the board set the first Monday of each month, at 4 p. m., as the time of regular meetings for 1940. Mr. Barnhart appointed Dr. Morgan and Dr. Thomas on the finance committee, better known among board members as the "signing committee," since its work consists of signing the bills submitted at each meeting.

Approval was given current bills totaling $3,920.62.

A framed photograph of the late Mrs. Daisy Harding Lewis, sister of President Harding and a teacher in the Marion schools for years, was presented by her husband, R. T. Lewis. Accepting the picture with warm appreciation, the board said it would be hung in the Harding High school library, to which Mrs. Lewis left $1,000 in her will.

The original picture was taken in 1914 by the McKeon studio. In a letter to the board, Mr. Lewis said it was taken "about the middle of her teaching period in high school."

Inclosed in the frame is the statement: "Teacher of English in the old Central High and Harding High, 1905-21, excepting 1908 when she encircled the world. Principal of Vernon school from 1921 until her marriage, in 1924. Born in 1876. Died, 1933.

When the meeting opened Don A. Howard, retiring member of the board, attended for a short period to take care of any unfinished business of the 1939 regime. When he left he wished the new board, "all the success in the world." As he left Mr. Barnhart said, "We appreciate your services on the board and enjoyed serving with you."

Mr. Gegenheimer, who ended 16 years of board service with the reorganization of the new board, explained that he could not leave until a new clerk was elected, but said he had a "swan song" to sing as a board member. He presented a detailed financial report covering his term as clerk since October of 1924.

Mr. Gegenheimer swore in Dr. Thomas, Mr. Torrance and Dr. Morgan.

Council Hears Safety Pleas

do all it can and offered the Chamber's full cooperation.

Asks For Plan

City Solicitor Kenneth A. Robinson asked what he suggested the city do and Mr. Michel replied that he believed the first step would be to contact the railroads, who should surely be willing to cooperate for their own good.

Mr. Robinson asked Mr. Michel why he came before council, to which Mr. Michel answered that council is the only body "we have a right to go to."

The solicitor then explained council is prevented by law from passing legislation requiring a railroad to place watchmen at crossings. In answer to a question from Councilman M. Basil Williams, he said the law requires railroads to keep their crossings clear of ice and snow and added that letters have been sent to all the roads advising them to do this.

Mr. Williams spoke briefly in defense of council, declaring "we have not been asleep on this proposition."

He said that there have been numerous occasions when council, through the solicitor, sought to have railroads increase crossing safety with full time watchmen. As late as the first council meeting of December, Mr. Williams sought such action.

He expressed his appreciation for the public interest in the question and hoped the joint effort might accomplish something.

Mr. Michel said he realized council had tried.

Other Groups Represented

President Stief then called on representatives of other groups.

E. M. Breithaupt of the Navy club declared, "as far as I can see it is council's duty to give us protection. How it is to be done is council's problem."

Cloyce O'Brien of the Junior Chamber of Commerce said his group has no solution but feels something should be done. Mrs. A. M. Hutchinson, chairman of the civic committee of the Altrusa club, also spoke briefly.

"There is an old axiom," she said, "after man came woman. She's been after him ever since. We are here just to listen and find out what you men want to do and then when you decide we'll follow you up till you do it."

John Zuck, president of the Central Labor Union, A. F. of L., pledged the support of the group to anything to forward the progress of crossing safety.

Mrs. W. E. Orcutt of the city P.-T. A. council said that parents of the city would feel much safer if they knew every crossing were guarded 24 hours a day. "I can't see why it shouldn't be," she said.

Mr. Patten, representing the C.I.O., said his group favors 24 hour protection and described unguarded crossings as "suicide crossings." He said the group will help in any way possible.

O. A. Ralston of the Veterans of Foreign Wars also attended.

Railroads Represented

Representatives of the four railroads running through Marion were present.

Frank Robinson, chief clerk to Freight Agent J. B. Ellis of the Big Four system here, said he came as a listener to become more acquainted with the desires of the people. Beyond that he had no authority to go, he said.

Frank Foster, Pennsylvania railroad freight agent here, said he has been advised by the division engineer that the road is now working on some plan which will be submitted to the city in the very near future.

C. A. Crim, Erie railroad freight agent, also came as a listener but said he believes the matter is under consideration by the road.

Three Chesapeake & Ohio railroad representatives attended, all avowedly as listeners. They were C. M. Ryder, assistant trainmaster; F. A. Sparks, supervisor, and F. W. Everett, freight agent.

Solicitor Robinson, speaking for council, explained that council is closely limited by law as to what it can do. It has no authority "to pass legislation to compel the solution you want," he told the audience.

He said the only place council can complain is the public utilities commission of Ohio, should the railroads fail to cooperate. He said he trusts the roads will be cooperative.

"If they are not, council will see to it that proper steps are taken at the proper time," he said.

Referred to Committees

Mr. Stief then referred the matter jointly to the two committees.

Following a query to the audience by Councilman Welcome P. Cass, Mr. Stief said there appeared to be no objections if the committees used the names of the various organizations to back up their requests to the railroads.

The entire discussion required a half hour and after a five-minute recess, council resumed with its routine business.

First President Stief named his committees for the new year: (first named are chairmen of committees)

Finance — Harry D. Cahill, Hayse L. Rogers and W. A. Dorsey.

Street and Alley—Mr. Dorsey, Earle Johnson and Mr. Williams.

Sanitary and Sewer—Mr. Johnson, Don R. Biggert and Mr. Cahill.

Streetlight and Gas — George Primm, Mr. Cass, Mr. Rogers.

Ordinance and Franchise—Mr. Rogers, Mr. Dorsey and Harry Wilhelm.

Judicial—Mr. Biggert, Mr. Williams, Mr. Primm.

Printing and Stationery—Mr. Biggert, Mr. Cass and Mr. Wilhelm.

Lands and Buildings — Mr. Johnson, Mr. Biggert, Mr. Cahill.

Police department — Mr. Wilhelm, Mr. Williams, Mr. Rogers.

Waterworks and Fire Department—Mr. Cass, Mr. Dorsey, Mr. Cahill.

Airport — Mr. Williams, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Primm.

Hospital—Mr. Cass, Mr. Williams, Mr. Primm.

Appointments

Next followed several appointments and reelection of Mr. Cahill as president pro-tem of council. Mr. Guthrie was reelected clerk of council at a salary of $1,500 annually and was then named mayor's clerk by Mayor Russell C. Snare. His bond was set at $1,000.

Clyde C. Caldwell was renamed safety-service director at a salary of $2,000 annually.

Mrs. Carl Miller was renamed to a five-year term on the board of health, beginning at once and ending Dec. 31, 1944, and T. L. Fahey to a four-year term as a sinking fund trustee, beginning now and ending Dec. 31, 1943. His bond is $2,000. A member of the park board is to be named later.

The bond of the mayor, for $5,000 with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., was approved.

Councilman Cass was sworn into office by Solicitor Robinson.

The appropriations for the first month of the year totaled $30,163. The practice of appropriating only for a month to begin with is of comparatively long standing. It arises from the difficulty of obtaining complete certification of fund estimates and then mapping out a financial program before money is actually needed. The money appropriated last night will go chiefly for salaries and incidentals needed to operate the city this month.

Operating Funds

General funds appropriations totaled $16,583 and other funds $13,580.

The general fund appropriation included $1,665 for various administrative offices, $8,177 for the safety fund, $474.33 for health and $6,266.67 for the service fund.

[illegible] ated from the garbage collection fund, $5,613 from the hospital fund, $3,650 from gasoline tax funds and $2,000 from the old WPA special levy fund.

As the measure was presented in an informal meeting in the mayor's office prior to the regular session, some controversy arose over the salary of R. E. Burnett, superintendent of the sewage treatment works. It was scheduled at $135 monthly, which Councilman Biggert contended was insufficient for the work he does. Mr. Biggert said that prior to 1936 the salary was $175 monthly, but was pared down then by $40. Mr. Biggert said if Mr. Burnett was ever worth $175 a month, he still is.

Mr. Biggert agreed to vote for the measure but said he expects the increased salary figure to be in the annual appropriation ordinance next month.

Mayor Snare said that when the appropriation ordinance is being drafted, heads of the various departments will be called in and asked to state their requirements.

At the regular council session, public hearing was scheduled for Feb. 12 for the request of W. R. Lawrence for transfer from the residential to the commercial zone of a property at the southeast corner of Church street and Pennsylvania avenue. It is now occupied by a grocery and Mr. Lawrence wishes to make some improvements, officials said. The request was recently approved by the planning commission.

In the informal discussion meeting, the question of the relation between the city's tax rate and the two extra levies which will be voted on Jan. 30 was clarified.

"Political" Aspect Denied

Various officials said they had heard the charge that there was a political aspect to the levies in that they were proposed after the general election was over and done with.

Mayor Snare said that there is nothing political in them and that they are proposed purely because the city needs the money to finance its relief and WPA operations. The levies are 1.3 mills for poor relief, and .9 of a mill for sponsoring WPA projects for the next two years.

He said the law forbids voting on relief levies at general elections, so it would have been impossible to have voted on them in November.

As to the announcement prior to the election that the city's rates would be lower, he had a comment to make.

The mayor pointed out that the rates announced in October were drawn by the county budget commission, not by the city. The rate provided only for operating and debt needs, he said.

"We had requested $50,000 for relief in our buget which was submitted to the county budget commission, but apparently they ignored it," he said. "Now we have nothing in any way like $50,000 for relief and must have the levies to get money for it."

The city's total rate as announced in October would be 17.3 mills this year, compared with 19 mills last year. The reduction, the mayor said, was due chiefly to reduction in the bonded debt of the city schools and the city government. It was not the result of reduction in operating needs, he said. The percentage of taxes going to the city for operating costs is the same, he said.

If the levies pass on Jan. 30, the city's total rate this year would be 10.5 mills or $19.50 for each $1,000 worth of property.

GALION — Dr. C. M. Brown, secretary of the College of Pharmacy of Ohio State university, was the speaker Monday evening for the meeting of the Galion Rotary club. Dr. Brown who was a member of the 1906 graduating class of Galion High school, addressed the club on the "History of Pharmacy."

suspected here, but would not be revealed, if they were known. The changes have been advocated by the army generals. Hore-Belisha was a ruthless, strongwilled person who ran over the army high command. The army finally got a knife into him and will henceforth run itself.

Moral Aid Only

Not one of several cabinet officers consulted individually believes Mr. Roosevelt intends to help the Allies by naval action or repeal of the Johnson act. They do expect increased moral aid to develop here by extending the moral embargo, making it easier for Finland and the Allies to get supplies wherever possible and harassing the Germans and Russians sub-officially.

It is quite evident Lord Lothian's Chicago speech plus Lord Beaverbrook's war-debt default sounded like the beginning of a campaign to circumvent the Johnson act, but no one around here seems to be leaning that way, either on or off the record.

GALION — Word has been received here of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gugler of Kalamazoo, Mich., Saturday, Jan. 6. Mr. Gugler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lew Gugler of Galion.

Harding Rated Underdog for Mt. Vernon Trip Friday

Prexies' Chances of Staying in N.C.O. Race Rest on Clash with Jackets.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

MARION HARDING cagemen assume the role of giant-killers this week when they journey into Knox county Friday night to face the currently unconquerable Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets.

Upon the success of Harding's venture into the camp of their highly touted foes depends Marion's chances of staying in the fight for 1939-40 North Central Ohio cage laurels.

How tough the assignment actually is can readily be pictured by a brief look at Mt. Vernon's record...the Jackets, who have piled up 342 points in seven tilts for the second best scoring performance in the state, will be after their twentieth home court victory against the locals.

Keep Floor Clean

In winning seven straight this season the Jackets have kept their home floor record unsullied for the third consecutive year. Two members of Coach Myron Prech's combine are among the state's leading individual point-getters, Bill Crumrine nabbing 73 in six starts and Harold Lore collecting 74 in seven games.

They've been very near invincible in the NCO loop, compiling 138 points against 90 for the opposition in winning three straight Other teams, including Harding have better defensive records, but none come closer than 30 points in matching the Jackets' on offense.

The stage seems to be pretty well set for history to repeat itself and local court followers are hoping that the old adage holds true all season. Last year's Marion club broke into league warfare with an unsullied slate, then bowed to Ashland and Mt. Vernon before going on to annex the championship.

Retrace Footsteps

So far this year the Prexies seem to be traveling very much the same path. Already they have gone down to defeat before Ashland and with Mt. Vernon looming up ahead, it looks like a repetition of the past season. Last year the locals staged a brilliant comeback during the final half of NCO competition to wallop the A's and then win the title in the season-ending game here against the Mounties.

Coach Dewey N. Bohyer and members of the Harding team, however, would like nothing better than to have the honor of putting the first mark on the Jackets' otherwise clean slate. That Bucyrus, with a club still seeking the first league win in two seasons, managed to hold the Jackets on fairly even terms demonstrates anything may happen Friday.

A view of loop scoring records shows the Bucks have a defensive record that is matched only by the Presidents. Therein lies the major hope of local followers. Foes of Harding have been held to an average of 26 points per duel, in spite of the 35 tallies posted by Ashland.

Shakeup Remote

Possibility of a shakeup striking the Harding squad this week appears remote, since there are few athletes of top caliber outside the roster of those who have seen action in recent games. Coach Bohyer is expected to stick pretty well to the same pair of quintets and follow the usual procedure of substituting an entirely new club at one blast.

No injuries have bobbed up thus far this week to mar their chances and there's every reason to believe the Prexies will be at full strength when they pack their togs for the jaunt to Mt. Vernon. Daily workouts through Thursday are on tap for the regulars and they will embark shortly after 5 p. m. Friday for the trek into Knox county.

3-WAY DELAWARE CO. TIE TO END FRIDAY

Radnor To Meet Ostrander in Duel for Lead.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Jan. 9—The triple deadlock for leadership of the Delaware county league cage circuit will be pared down to at least two teams this week.

Radnor plays at Ostrander, Friday night, and the duelists are tied with Hyatts for the top spot. Each has five victories and one defeat. Hyatts will risk its position by visiting Galena.

Sunbury will have a chance to stay on the heels of the leaders if it can stave off the invading Powell quintet. Berlin last week suffered a 27-25 upset by Hyatts and this week treks to Ashley.

Another game will find Orange at Harlem, while the last-place clubs, Brown and Bellpoint, tangle on the latter's court in a scrap to get out of the cellar.

Last week's results saw Hyatts spill Berlin, 27-25; Sunbury romp over Bellpoint, 51-17; Orange wallop Ashley, 40-27; Radnor trim Brown, 26-19; Ostrander defeat Harlem, 28-14 and Powell edge Galena in an overtime tilt, 21-19.

Current standings follow:

Men of the Decade in Sports

SARAZEN

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

SECOND IN A SERIES

NEW YORK — Golf's Man of the Decade must be an internationalist, one who won on both sides of the Atlantic He must be an athlete who shone both under the strain of medal play, where a single putt brought disaster, and in match play, where psychology sometimes takes hold and where nerves must be of steel.

Our nominee is that stubby little Roman, Gene Sarazen, a cocky and courageous competitor who captured virtually all the laurels offered to a professional.

Looking back over the Thirties one can find a handful of standout golfers. The most recent sensations were Ralph Guldahl and Sam Snead.

Snead was the good-looking young glamor boy of the decade, a long hitter and low scorer, a big money-winner, a naive West Virginia "hill-billy" who rushed out of obscurity to become a top figure in no time at all Snead almost won the Open in his first bid, finishing two shot behind Guldahl in 1937. Last summer he had the blue ribbon all but won, then blew up on the last hole and kicked it away.

Then there was Harry Cooper, the king without a crown. Day after day he was the most dangerous competitor in golf. He won many tournaments, was a big money-earner, and a consistent scoring leader. But he never won a major title.

Denny Shute, a thin, dour, cold-blooded sharpshooter, was the most feared match player of the period Abroad Henry Cotton of Britain was tops, undoubtedly one of the finest players of the years.

But, in our book, none of these compared with Sarazen. He won in this country and in Europe. He excelled at match play and medal play. He was a star in 1930 and still a threat in 1939.

He won all six major championships, five of them in the Thirties. In 1932 he garnered both the U. S. and the British Open crowns, setting a scoring record in England. A year later he won the Professionals' match play tournament. In 1935 he scored his famous double-eagle to tie Craig Wood and Win the Augusta Masters' in a playoff. He was Western Open champion in 1930 and Metropol*itan ruler in 1925. Once he finish*ed second and twice he wound up third in the British Open.

He is our Man of the Decade but his record hardly compared in consistency with that of Bobby Jones, the Man of the Twenties.

We limit the sturdy Southerner to the Twenties, although his greatest glory came at the beginning of the Thirties, when he won his "grand slam"—the U. S and British Open and Amateur championships—and retired

It was always "Jones against the field"—and that was something that couldn't be said about Sarazen or any other figure of the Thirties.

JONES IN THE '20's

SARAZEN IN THE '30's

Tough Texan and "The Mask" Win Bouts

George Wagner, a rough-riding hombre from the Lone Star state, and a hooded gentleman of the ring known only as "The Mask" won spectacular bouts after an opening battle royal on last night's ring program at the Marion Steam Shovel arena, which marked the resumption of wrestling after a brief lapse during the holiday season.

Wagner wound up at the top of the card with a victory over Paul Orth, Cleveland's self-styled Tarzan of the Mat, after they were finalists in the inaugural gang fight The Mask, dishing out no more than his over-aggressive foe invited proceeded to wipe up the canvas with rugged Danny Savich from the University of Utah

Squat little Andy Tremaine of Phoenix, Ariz, was first to hear the birdies sing in the battle royal He was punched to the floor by The Mask and wound up beneath a maze of arms and legs that even Referee Tom Temple couldn't fathom. Number two on the list of down and outers was Martino Angelo of Buffalo, N Y, spilled by Wagner's body flip and floored by the mob

Danny Savich and Wagner edge of the battlefield.

The trio finally took turns head flipping Savich and the Utahan took the count as a semi-finalist. Orth, Wagner and The Mask remained and it was the hooded man who took it on the chin, despite Orth's apparently honorable intentions of helping the paired against Orth and The Mask as the field narrowed and the first mentioned duo got considerable help from outside the ring. Angelo, not content with retiring to the dressing room, stood at ringside and pounded his shoe down on the toes of the fighters as they approached the hooded warrior. The entire battle royal lasted just over 15 minutes.

The Mask showed plenty of ring ability in his smashing-crashing victory over Savich in the semi-windup. He outsmarted the Utah battler and utilized a bone crunching arm stretch to get the edge in the first fall that went 15 minutes. Savich passed away in a slugfest to start the second and then relied on a back-breaker over the ropes in an effort to stop The Mask. Handing back the same treatment, the hooded one finished in front after spilling Savich over his knee and then sprawling on his foe's prostrate form. The second fall was timed at two minutes.

Temper Too Hot

Orth's ill temper cost him the final match with Wagner. He had won the first fall in 13 minutes when he forced the Texan to concede by applying a hammerlock and bouncing his knees on Wagner's arm muscles. Wagner punted the Clevelander into submission in just two minutes to even the score. The Cleveland toughie wound up on the short end of the horn when he was disqualified after four minutes had elapsed in the closing round. The foul was called by Referee Temple when Orth took a mouthful of Wagner's ear and refused to unclamp his molars.

The first match of the new year saw the institution of a new disqualifying rule. Referees hereafter are to be instructed that any fighter refusing to break an illegal grip faces immediate disqualification after a warning count of five seconds. The rule was brought into play in the final fall and cost Orth his chance of staying the limit with Wagner.

KERN RESIGNS AS CARNEGIE'S COACH

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9 — Bill Kern's resignation as head football coach at Carnegie Tech today completed a wholesale departure of the city's major sports figures within less than a year's time.

Jock Sutherland (he's still reported going anywhere) started the turnover last March, stepping down in an athletic upheaval at Pitt. John P. (Little Clipper) Smith within 11 days duplicated the act at Duquesne.

That was enough to keep the hot stove league boiling for months but the fire brightened in September with Pie Traynor's withdrawal from managership of the Pittsburgh baseball club. Then Johnny Blood gave up leadership of the Pirate pro gridsters.

Dr. Eddie Baker, first lieutenant throughout Kern's stay at Tech, is regarded as the likely successor to the Plaid post.

OHIO U. NOW LEADS CAGERS OF STATE

By The Associated Press

Ohio university's Bobcats led the pack in Ohio's basketball race today as Toledo absorbed its second defeat in 14 starts to drop into second place with an .857 rating. The Athens lads have won seven and lost one for .875.

The Rockets, beaten in early season by Princeton, fell before the Thundering Herd of Marshall college, 50 to 37, last night.

Two other Ohio teams fared badly on foreign soil, State losing to Purdue, 49 to 32, and Youngstown taking its second defeat of the year at Canton, N. Y., against St. Lawrence, 47 to 37.

Geselbracht dropped in 13 points to pace Xavier to a 36 to 35 victory over Tennessee at Louisville, Ky.

The [illegible]burgh pretty boy, who [illegible] bow as a full-fledged [illegible] in Madison Square [illegible] tomorrow night against [illegible] Cooper, is so convinced [illegible] that one fine afternoon [illegible] the next six months you [illegible] to read where he has [illegible] the light heavyweight [illegible] to go against the [illegible] exclusively.

"[illegible] big guys," he pointed [illegible] a goodly portion of dis[illegible] all the same. They tire easy. When you fight one of 'em, you just let him wear himself out [illegible] the first few rounds. Then you just lean one hand against the top of his head, cock the other—and wham!

"I love to fight those big clowns more than the guys my own size. A guy who can box around with you always gives trouble. But never those stuffed pillows. They're all the same to me."

This is undoubtedly a large order for the "Fighting Harp" from the smoky city. Just one year ago yesterday, he showed up in New York for the first time, unknown and weighing a mere 165. Now he is king of the 175-pounders. After his final workout for tomorrow's tussle, he weighed an even 175, which probably means he will go into the ring at 176 or 177.

"At that rate," he added, "I should be 185 or 190 in another year. I'm going to give up the light-heavyweight title when I can't make the weight any more. That'll be sometime in the next few months. If no title fight is arranged before then, I'd like to hand the championship over to Gus Lesnevich. He deserves it—and maybe he'll buy me a new shirt for it."

STOVER HOLDS JOB

By The Associated Press.

Harridge Sings Night Ball's Praises

(This is another in a series written for The Associated Press by the nation's sports leaders, in which they review outstanding events and trends of 1939 and indicate likely 1940 developments.)

* * *

By WILLIAM HARRIDGE

American Baseball League President.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—The season of 1939 brought considerable satisfaction to the American league and to me personally.

Thanks to the inauguration of night baseball in three of our cities—Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago—the attendance figures practically equalled those of 1938, despite the fact the pennant was decided early in the season. With a close race right up to the middle of September or later, I believe we would have broken all turnstile records.

There is no doubt of night baseball's popularity. The fans enjoyed it immensely, not only because it gave many of them a first chance to see a game, but also because of the carnival spirit. I feel sure night baseball is here to stay when limited to seven games a season for each club.

Naturally, the American league is happy because it won the All-Star game and the World Series. It also took great satisfaction in the development of such star youngsters as outfielder Ted Williams and third baseman James Tabor of Boston, pitcher Atley Donald and outfielder Charles Keller of New York, shortstop Louis Boudreau of Cleveland, outfielder Barney McCosky of Detroit and catcher Mike Tresh of Chicago.

The veteran American leaguers, however, were not to be denied. At the age of 39, Bob Grove of Boston and Ted Lyons of Chicago distinguished themselves by leading the league in effectiveness.

Nor should I forget another veteran, James Foxx of Boston.

The season of 1939 will go down in history as the one to which the most sentimentality was attached, because it was "baseball's centennial."

My belief is that one hundred years from now, baseball will be even more firmly entrenched as the national game.

WYANDOT CO. LEAGUE HEADS FOR STRETCH

Leading Wharton To Meet Lowly Sycamore Friday.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 9—[illegible] unbeaten at the end of the [illegible] round of Wyandot county [illegible] cage play, Wharton High Dragons will dip into the home [illegible] of their 1940 schedule by [illegible] host to Sycamore Friday [illegible]

Wharton has won seven straight and oddly enough it was Marseilles, now next to the cellar, that gave the Dragons their [illegible] battle. The tiff went into an overtime period before Wharton won by a single point.

Harpster, with six victories in seven starts and the only league loss coming at the hands of Wharton, has the runner-up place pretty well tied down. Coach Ken [illegible]'s outfit is two full games ahead of Salem and McCutchenville, tied for third position.

Harpster meets a second-division club this week, visiting Eden. Wharton takes on the cellar occupants, playing host to Sycamore. McCutchenville and Marseilles meet on the latter's court and Salem visits Nevada, to round [illegible] the Friday night card.

Last week's results brought Wharton's 45-16 trouncing of Eden, Harpster's easy win over Sycamore, 48-17, Nevada's 25-24 [illegible] of Marseilles and McCutchenville's narrow squeak victory over Salem, 35-24.

Current standings follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Wharton	7	0	1.000
Harpster	6	1	.857
Salem	4	3	.571
McCutchenville	4	3	.571
Nevada	4	3	.571
Eden	2	5	.288
Marseilles	1	6	.143

ELECTION IS HELD AT UPPER SANDUSKY

F. J. Krock and [illegible] Mahaffey, assistants; Miss [illegible] Gottfried, secretary; Miss [illegible] Krebs, treasurer; Mrs. [illegible] Koehler, superintendent primary department; Miss Helen [illegible], kindergarten superintendent; Mrs. John Ulrich, cradle roll superintendent. During a congregational meeting Oscar [illegible] was elected elder; Friel [illegible] deacon; Daniel Coons, trustee; Harold Cope, secretary; Russell Krebs, treasurer, and Irvin Tschantz, member of board of finance.

STARTLING NEW DEVELOPMENT in Motor Fuels

...Two new gasolines to give you an EXTRA MARGIN OF PERFORMANCE at no increase in price...

NEW SUPER-SHELL
An Advanced Motor Fuel For Exceptional Performance

There's an exciting new experience waiting for you at your neighborhood Shell station—a NEW Super-Shell gasoline with stepped-up performance you can FEEL without using your imagination.

Give this NEW Super-Shell the toughest tests you can think of. Notice how quickly it starts on the coldest mornings. Notice the surging power as you shift from first—to second—to third. Notice the increased anti-knock on the steepest hill you can find. Notice the reserve energy responding to the touch of your foot as you pass other cars.

MOST OF ALL—notice how EVERY quality of the NEW Super-Shell has been improved to increase your savings on Stop-and-Go.

You're right! It DOES cost more to make this NEW gasoline—but it costs you no more to buy it!

This spectacular advance made by the same talent ...the same company that

FIRST SPONSORED ANTI-KNOCK RESEARCH . . . Under the sponsorship of Shell, Harry Ricardo discovered principles that made modern high-compression engines possible. His experiments in flame propagation and action of aromatic hydro-carbons led to development of Shell's "BALANCING PROCESS" in refining.

FIRST TO RE-FORM GASOLINE... Many of the great advances in gasoline refining have come from Shell laboratories. In these laboratories are more than 1000 skilled scientists—who search tirelessly and unceasingly for new and better ways to make new and better petroleum products at ever lower cost.

AND NOW SHELL'S BALANCING PROCESS SAVES YOU MORE MONEY ON STOP-AND-GO . . . Basis of both the new Super-Shell and the new Shell Premium is the "BALANCING PROCESS." This means that no one essential quality is emphasized at the sacrifice of another. Thus—when you start—shift gears—accelerate—or travel steadily every drop of motor fuel is completely usable.

Both Super-Shell and Shell Premium are refined by this process.

Because you get full value from every drop—because it responds instantly to all driving conditions—you reduce gasoline waste. You save on Stop-and-Go.

NEW SHELL PREMIUM
The Finest Gasoline Ever to Bear the Shell Name

New Shell Premium comes straight from the same scientific research that produced the first 100 octane gasoline—the gasoline used in today's racing planes.

If your car has an anti-knock requirement far above the average—you will appreciate the utmost in performance of New Shell Premium.

Still more costly to make, the New Shell Premium gives you EVEN WIDER MARGIN of performance at slight additional cost.

MARKET RALLY LACKS SUPPORT

Leading Issues Generally Move Into Lower Territory in Trading Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Efforts to give the stock market a mild lift met with a cool reception today and leading issues generally stumbled into lower territory.

Volume of offerings, light at the start, picked up around noon and early small gains in most cases were converted into declines of fractions to more than 2 points. Few plus signs were in evidence near the fourth hour.

Buying ardor waned, brokers said, as further talk was heard of a fair-sized spring business recession and doubts were expressed that congress and politics would provide any outstanding speculative inspiration over the near-term.

Bonds and commodities were ragged, as were the principal European securities markets.

Prominent stock sliders included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, and United Aircraft.

Lagging in the curb were American Cyanamid "B", Electric Bond & Share, Borne-Scrymser and Standard Steel Spring.

Dealings on the "big board" came virtually to a standstill during British Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech.

Those who had looked for a market clue from orators at Jackson Day dinners seemed disappointed, notwithstanding predictions that forthcoming election campaign strategy would not be revealed at this moment.

WHEAT DECLINES 2 CENTS A BUSHEL

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—After an advance of almost a cent, wheat prices today resumed the decline which has been under way the past week, wiping out early gains and tumbling about 2 cents below pervious closing levels. Prices were the lowest in two weeks.

Some selling here was attributed to spreading operations against purchases at Winnipeg, where wheat is much cheaper, and reports that the Canadian wheat board was offering grain there increased offerings in the Chicago market. The decline uncovered numerous stop loss orders which were put into execution, augmenting the selling.

Buenos Aires prices declined about 2 cents.

Wheat here closed 1⅝-2 cents lower than yesterday, May $1.01½-⅝, July 98⅝-¾; corn ⅝-⅞ down, May 58¼-⅜, July 59-58⅞; oats ⅛-½ lower.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB HEADS REELECTED

H. E. Clark Again President of County Group.

Harold E. Clark of 336 Monroe street was reelected president of the Marion County Democratic club at a meeting at party headquarters.

Other officers reelected for the year are: Carl Haberman, vice president, Mrs. Nora Fetter, secretary; and Kenneth Tobin, treasurer.

Plans were made for a "Nora Fetter Night" meeting at the headquarters Feb. 23 in appreciation of Mrs. Fetter's five years' service as secretary. A potluck dinner will precede the meeting. All the other officers elected last night were chosen for second terms.

Approximately 200 members from throughout the county attended.

ENGLAND

has been curtailed to clear lines for movement of vital supplies.

His office or factory looks like a place near the front line trenches. Doors and windows are piled with sandbags. The lighting is bad. No longer has he a full range of the world's foods for lunch.

He can't get his favorite brand of tea in the evening; the government has pooled all brands. To expert tea-drinkers like the English the result is horrible.

To get such staples as meat, sugar and butter his wife must now present ration cards, or soon will have to. She is limited to 12 ounces of sugar a week, 4 ounces of bacon, and 4 ounces of butter.

At sunset, he has to put black shades on all the windows. For a fair-sized house, shades cost about $20.

Social Life Blacked Out

The blackout has virtually stopped social life. To get to his favorite pub or club, a Briton risks breaking his neck walking through pitch black streets with automobiles and buses whizzing past him lighted only by bare flickers.

The biggest worry is the family budget. Take the case of a married man with one child who earns $2,500 a year. In peace time he ran a ten horsepower midget car, went to a movie with his wife about once a week and to a stage play about six times a year.

He drank about three pints of beer a week, didn't indulge in more than three bottles of whisky a year. He and his wife smoked about 20 cigarettes a day, consumed about a quarter of pound of tea and two pounds of sugar a week.

It's costly to own an empire "on which the sun never sets" he finds when he figures his war-time taxes. His income tax for 1939-40 comes to $122.50 and for 1940-1941 he will have to pay the government $214. Other taxes figure out like this: Automobile license, $37.50; gasoline tax, $50.00; entertainments, $10; tea tax, $2; sugar, $3.25; whisky, $7.50; beer, $8.50; tobacco, $30.25.

For 1940-41 his automobile license tax will amount to $82.25, if he hasn't sold the car by then. Used car lots already are full of bargains.

The dark side of the picture doesn't mean Englishmen have any intention of yielding to "Ole Hitler," but many of them wonder what's around the corner.

Sometimes, to an American, they remark, "Your country will be the only decent place to live after this war."

LIONS CLUB HEARS TALK BY LIMA MAN

"We in the United States need red-blooded Americanism instead of gun powder for ammunition," Guy Breitinger, general manager of the Lima Telephone Co. and former district governor of Lions clubs, told members of the Marion Lions club at a luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding yesterday.

Speaking on the Lions slogan, "Liberty, Intelligence and Our Nation's Safety," Mr. Breitinger said that an American may exercise his personal liberty only within the limits of law.

"The purpose of law and government is to restrain our liberty so that liberty can be had by all," de declared.

Expressing an opinion, that United States in general is free from communism and communistic influences, the speaker defined communism as "a state of society with nothing to eat, divided equally."

Dr. Harold Finney, Walter D. Moore and Ralph C. Cook were introduced as new members. Guests included Robert Maynard, J. P. Peters, Harold Kramer and Virgil Flocken.
